“The Bold Hope of Christmas”

This week we will turn the calendar of 2024 for a final time to December.

December is known for many things. Veterans remember Dec 7. The infamous anniversary of D-Day. Dec 9th is Christmas card day for all who race to get their Christmas cards out. And of course the most treasured and glorious day of all in December is Christmas Day on the 25th.

Now for most, Christmas has already been on your mind from mailings to decorations, school program schedules, holiday parties, and the next family get together.

This certainly is the most wonderful time of the year! Not because of black Friday deals or more lights or even gifts under the tree. No, Christmas is the greatest of winter days in December, because it announces with bold hope and eternal promise that our Savior, Christ Jesus is here!

As we focus on the certain and sure hope of our Lord coming in his first Advent, this season we are continuing our series in Paul's final letter to the church at Corinth. As we continue in chapter 3-6 we want the boldness of our hope to be evident. We desire our jars of clay to be in peace. So that our dwellings would be filled with joy, and love would overflow in reconciling love that gives eternal thanks for the salvation that has come through Christ alone for our redemption.

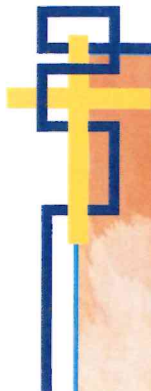

This is the promise that the faithful had been longing for and expecting for centuries. This promise is now given to our hearts to receive and our souls to be stirred that we would recognize and give thanks for the newborn king.

Allow the hope of his birth to open your heart to the expectancy of joy this Advent. So that each of us would hold onto the greatest gift that humanity has longed for; the Savior who is Christ the Lord.

The one who didn't come in shiny paper but with angel choir. The one who wasn't placed wrapped in silk but in swaddling bands. He is the greatest gift you will ever receive. What are you expecting this Christmas? Expect Christ. Let him be your king!

Christmas blessings,

Pastor Matt

Welcome Charlie and Samantha Poppema

Hello, we are Charlie and Samantha Poppema. I, Charlie, grew up in Orange City, Iowa. My parents are Jim and Lauri Poppema. I have three brothers, Trey, Jared, and Jaxson. Jared is married to Morgan, and they have a daughter named Lennon, as well as another on the way. I attended Orange City Christian, Unity Christian, and later went on to Dordt to pursue a degree in Business. I am currently employed at Animal Health International in Sioux Center.

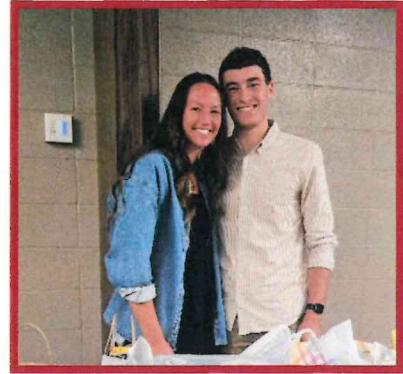

I, Samantha, grew up in Hull, Iowa. My parents are Waylon and Melissa Pollema, and I have two brothers, Carter and Chandler. Carter is married to Jodi, and they have two children, Marlee and Mattias. I attended Hull Christian, Western Christian, and after taking a gap year, I attended Dordt to pursue a degree in education. I am currently employed at Rock Valley Christian as a 3rd grade teacher.

We were recently united in marriage in November, and we currently live in Rock Valley. Together, we love to spend time with family and friends, spend time outdoors, go on walks, golf, and travel. We are so excited to be a part of such a loving and welcoming church community. We look forward to seeing what God has in store for us at First CRC!

"Mine, Ours, & His"

If we are really honest with ourselves the title of this piece would be in the exact order in which we view possessions or anything in this world that can rightly belong to anyone of us. We seem to always be on the lookout for ourselves, we view ourselves number one. If my needs are met then the world is at its best, I can move forward knowing that I am taken care of. Once my needs are met, I can perhaps look and inquire into the details of my fellow man. How is he doing? Does he need anything? If he does, can I give what I don't need, but perhaps it's been already picked through? He's okay with partial things, isn't he? Oh yeah, we can't forget about God. I have divided up the bounty between myself and my neighbor, there still is a little bit left that neither of us have taken. I guess, it's an opportunity to give it to God.

If we are further honest with ourselves the scenario described in the previous paragraph happens on a regular basis. We take what we think rightfully belongs to us as individuals, leave the "leftovers" for our fellow man and neighbor and then give the remaining pieces to God. We may even pat ourselves on the back, believing that we have done good, that we have done our work in God's kingdom. In reality, though, we have hindered the work of God's kingdom and hurt ourselves, our fellow man, and our relationship with God in the process.

I think it's safe to say that we all would recognize that the title has to be reversed. Once we get past our own greed and jealousy, we realize that everything that we have or possibly could have in this lifetime belongs to him. It is his, his to do with what he wants, his to distribute, his to keep. Once we recognize that we are under God we recognize the communal relationship that we share with our fellow man. We carry this out by sharing with them in times of need and in times of plenty, in times of hardship and in times of prosperity. Regardless of the item or the person, we give out of a love for them and ultimately for God. Then we have the opportunity to look inward to look at ourselves and assess what we need. God will give us all that we need to live, we will be lacking in nothing. Even more so will we be blessed if we focus on the other two groups first.

Reorganizing this title is hard to do in our minds and sometimes even harder to live out. But the great thing about this reversal is that by reversing we start with God first; he will give us all that we need in order to live and thrive as individuals and as helping community. He knows what we need and he also knows the needs of the members of our communities. It is only in his help and with his strength that we can reverse the title and turn from feelings of selfishness to feelings of surrender and sharing.

Want to have a richer Thanksgiving this year and ultimately a richer life? Consider reversing the title of this piece to reflect God first, our fellow neighbor and community second and finally ourselves last. In doing so we can begin to structure our lives the way God intended. It may not be easy or natural for us to do but Lord willing we can begin to see the blessings that will abound from our heavenly father to our community and then to ourselves. Then, we can truly exclaim, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow!"

"The Incarnation"

At the center of Christmas is Jesus, both fully God and fully man. "In Bethlehem, humility and glory in their extremes were joined," wrote pastor R.G. Lee (1886-1978). When Jesus came to earth, Lee explained, he descended:

- from the heights of glory to the depths of shame,
- from the wonders of heaven to the wickedness of earth,
- from exaltation to humiliation,
- from the throne to the tree,
- from dignity to debasement,
- from worship to wrath,
- from the halls of heaven to the nails of earth,
- from the coronation to the curse,
- from the glory place to the gory place!

"Born in a stable! Cradled in a cattle trough! Wrapped in swaddling clothes of poverty!" Lee wrote. "No room for him who made all rooms! [No] place for him who made and knows all places! Oh, deep humiliation of the Creator — born of the creature, woman! But in his descent was the dawn of mercy. Because we cannot ascend to him, he descends to us."

"Look Upon Love"

Let us then meditate upon the Nativity just as we see it happening in our own babies. I would not have you contemplate the deity of Christ, the majesty of Christ, but rather his flesh. Look upon the baby Jesus. Divinity may terrify people. Inexpressible majesty will crush them. That is why God took on our human flesh and blood, that God should not terrify us but rather that with love and favor God would console and comfort us. ~Martin Luther

"A Hobby Turned Ministry"

The internet has transformed shopping, whether for Christmas, major purchases or even groceries. I've spent hours scrolling Facebook Marketplace for just the right new-to-me items. Hunting for a great deal or a unique piece is part of the appeal.

But after reading Philippians 2:4, I also began paying attention to the people I encountered along the way. "Don't look out only for your own interests," that verse says, "but take an interest in others, too" (NLT).

A retired couple all but invited me to dinner when I bought a lamp from them. I remember the woman's delight as she described her recipe. A young man with developmental challenges who sold me a video game communicated its quality much better than anyone I've encountered.

When a mom purchased some chairs from us, she shared her excitement while loading her van. Her family now had a "real home" after living in an RV during a tough time. Once I bought furniture from a woman who was visibly stressed, exhausted from helping her mother-in-law move out of state.

As my transactions turned into interactions, my heart was changing — for the better. My hobby became more enjoyable and meaningful as I took time to listen and care.

Bible Trivia

“A Glorious Hope”

Let us today go down to Bethlehem, and in company with wondering shepherds and adoring Magi, let us see him who was born King of the Jews, for we by faith can claim an interest in him, and can sing, “Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given.” Jesus is Jehovah incarnate, our Lord and our God, and yet our brother and friend; let us adore and admire. ...

Let us reverently bow before the holy Child whose innocence restores to [humankind] its ancient glory; and let us pray that he may be formed in us, the hope of glory.

~C.H. Spurgeon, Morning and Evening

“The Light of Life”

Most sand comes from coral and rocks that get ground into tiny grains. But in a few places, like some beaches of Japan, the bits of sand are shells or skeletons that once housed single-celled organisms. A magnifying glass reveals their star shape: a rounded middle and five or more spines, like a sea star.

These unique creatures live on undersea reefs and share their interior with algae called diatoms, which convert light into carbohydrates and oxygen through photosynthesis. The star points let light into the exoskeleton; in turn, diatoms produce energy to feed them both. When these organisms die, the star skeletons wash onto beaches, protecting the islands even after their own lives end. Our amazing God designed astounding creatures!

This same Creator made us able to take in light from Christ. Jesus said, “I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me ... will have the light of life” (John 8:12). When we receive his light, it becomes in us the “energy” we need to do good: to love others, care for people in need, appreciate nature — including star sand! — and give glory to the Artist of this entire incredible world. ~Heidi Hyland Mann

“Use the Gift”

At Christmas, God sent his Son to live among us. But he doesn't want us to be passive recipients of that precious gift. Consider these challenges for the season — and for the new year ahead:

--“He became what we are that we might become what he is.” ~Athanasius (4th century)

--“When Christ entered our world, he didn't come to brighten our Decembers but to transform our lives.” ~Rich Miller

--“Christmas began in the heart of God. It is complete only when it reaches the heart of man. Why wait for a call when you have a command?” ~Robert Hughes

“That's A (Re)wrap!”

The Reintgen family in North Carolina will always remember Christmas 2023. At 3 a.m. on December 25, their 3-year-old son woke them up, asking for scissors to open his new action-figure toy. “That's when we realized something had gone terribly wrong,” said Scott, his dad.

A quick trip downstairs revealed a mess of unwrapped gifts under the family's Christmas tree. “There was not one thing that he left unscathed,” Scott said. The boy, in his defense, said he was just trying to help everyone know what they'd received.

With only hours until their other children awoke, the Reintgens were determined to save Christmas. Mom Katie raced to rewrap gifts, even managing to get most nametags back on the correct packages. Instead of being angry, the parents found humor in the ordeal. Afterward, they explained to their son the joy that people experience from receiving — and opening — their own presents.

Morals of the story? Remember this 3-year-old when you get overeager for certain parts of the holidays. Don't rush through anything, and let others enjoy Christmas at their own pace too. When something goes wrong, don't panic. Like the Reintgens, find joy in any unexpected glitches and grins you encounter throughout the season.

Cornerstone Prison Church

As you come to him, the living Stone - rejected by humans but chosen by God and precious to him - you also, like living stones, are being built into a spiritual house to be a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. For in Scripture it says:

"See, I lay a stone in Zion,
a chosen and precious cornerstone,
and the one who trusts in him
will never be put to shame."

1 Peter 2:4-6

November 2024

EXPANDING THE KINGDOM FROM THE INSIDE-OUT

UPDATE ON CORNERSTONE

2 Chronicles 7:13-14 says: "When I shut up the heavens so that there is no rain, or command locusts to devour the land or send a plague among my people, if my people, who are called by my name, will humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and I will forgive their sin and will heal their land.

Over the summer and at the fall Classis meetings I shared the ways God has been working powerfully through a time where many in the prison have been hurting, or at least longing for better days. There has been a series of sweeping changes the last year that have decreased opportunities for the men to engage in community, worship practice, work, and recreation. Tensions rose much over the summer and areas of the prison experienced radical reduction in movement. Then the entire Sioux Falls Prison Complex went into a near month long lockdown where all outside religious volunteers were not allowed to continue providing religious programming in the prison. We called on our partner churches to pray, we were hoping for healing and wellbeing for our incarcerated brothers in Christ, for restoration of a functional chapel schedule, for changes that would increase the religious liberties and opportunities for our men rather than the gradual decrease that seemed to have set in.

Once we got back in, our time slots for worship were experiencing less reduction from schedule trouble. Our Bible Study attendance has grown significantly. The hunger for resources has skyrocketed with the pamphlets that we provide giving reformed answers to life's harder questions being taken from the chapel faster than any other time in the last three years. More recently the state removed the warden from her post at the Sioux Falls Prison Complex. That same week we learned that an effort was being made to get worship services moved back to evenings instead of keeping them in the afternoon. Transition is happening in a big way, with greater possibility of guests attending in the evenings again and even the possibility of having praise team practice again within the next few months (Our band has had to show up and lead worship without any practice for nearly a year).

Thank you for your prayers thus far, and please continue to pray.

Pray that God would work through the transition in leadership and that the next Warden would be favorable to the work our church is doing in the prison.

Pray that the tensions would continue to diminish and that the wellbeing of our men would improve as new normal trends of schedule bring back some of what had been taken away.

Pray that the switch back to evening worship services goes well so that we can again welcome groups who haven't been able to attend with us in the afternoon.

Pray that God would continue to draw to himself the hearts of men who have been far from him so they would take that step of coming to a church program or service for the first time.

Pray that the Bible's, daily devotionals, and many reformed resources that have been flying from the shelves lately are being read and shared so that many more men would grow in the depth of their faith and their understanding of the truth.

Pray that the upcoming Christmas Card Distribution to the men goes well and that God provides all that is needed for the statewide Christmas Sack program (the Christmas Sack program is a bag of goodies for every inmate to remind them they are not forgotten over the Christmas season. This replaced the Christmas Fudge program when home produced goods were no longer allowed.)

Thank you for your prayers and support, May God hear from heaven and bring even more healing to our land.
